EN QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Coronavirus including the new Omicron variant and about the larger plans of the government vis a vis the health sector.

Question: It has been observed that the Omicron variant has more transmissibility in comparison to previous variants, though hospitalization is low. So how has the ministry recalibrated its strategy to combat this new challenge?

Lav Agarwal: Let me just highlight the fact that the Omicron variant is found to be highly transmissible. Also, it has a shorter incubation period, which means if you are infected, it can lead to faster spread of the infection. However, the onset of symptoms is early and mild as well. Taking that into consideration and taking all the available evidences from the world as well as India, we rely on our ongoing strategy based on five principles - Test, Track, Treat, Vaccination and Adherence to COVID Appropriate Behavior. These principles remain applicable even to this variant and even within the overall framework of COVID-19 management.

Having said that, it is very critical for us to understand that since most of the cases will be mild and the fact that this is a highly transmissible variant, it is important that we give priority to containment aspects and follow these principles where needed because the virus does not infect on its own, it infects if you provide it an opportunity to infect. So, if we focus on containment and do not allow the virus to infect others, then we will decrease the number of cases within the country to a large extent. Second, given the fact that the infection is mild, there will be a situation where larger number of patients would require home isolation. In such a scenario, we need to focus if the home isolation protocols are being followed properly. Third, some of the patients in home isolation may require follow up in the hospital setting. So, to that extent, we will revise our clinical management plans of the government vis a vis the health sector.

INTERVIEW

Nidhi Prasad

India’s healthcare sector is growing at a tremendous pace owing to its expanding coverage, services, innovations, technology, and increasing expenditure by public as well as private players, making it one of India’s largest sector, both in terms of revenue and employment. Hospital administration comprises hospitals and health care centres, medical equipment, clinical trials, telemedicine, medical tourism, health insurance, and research labs. The hospital industry in India accounts for 80% of the total healthcare market, hospitals and health care centres, medical equipment, clinical trials, telemedicine, medical tourism, health insurance, and research labs. The hospital industry in India accounts for 80% of the total healthcare market. Hospitals offer job opportunities to clinical as well as non-clinical professionals. Given the rapid pace at which the hospital industry is booming, there will inevitably be a greater requirement for manpower in this sector. Hence, choosing a career in hospital administration would be a wise decision.

What is Hospital Administration?

Hospital administration comprises professionals who handle key responsibilities that include overseeing the facility’s finances, hiring and managing staff, examining and implementing ways to provide quality care, setting facility/department goals, ensuring policies and procedures align with current laws, communicating with management and board of directors, developing schedules and budgets apart from handling logistics, marketing and medical billing, as well as a host of other related duties.

Career Opportunities in Hospital Management

HR Managers

As a Human Resource (HR) Manager, you will play a crucial role in hiring both clinical and non-clinical professionals for the hospital. HR managers are also called nursing directors, medical directors, head of the departments etc. whose main job is to maintain the functioning of the hospital, managing outpatients, managing treatment centres and ensuring patient as well as staff healthcare.

Sales & Marketing

As a Hospital Manager, you will be handling all the administrative work such as finances, accounting, marketing etc. You will be involved in managing hospital operations and also day to day running of hospital. From managing single department to hospital chains all over the country, one has to keep a check on all.

REINFORCING INDIA’S FIGHT AGAINST COVID-19

Protocol, upgrade our health infrastructure and see to it that we are able to manage all the cases which need hospitalization. The most important aspect is - community support, community awareness, and alertness within community. Since it is a highly transmissible disease, we need to follow COVID appropriate behaviour which is primarily the use of mask and following ‘do gaj do gaj’ - physical distancing as a ‘new normal’.

Question: While dealing with the first and second wave of the pandemic and the simultaneous vaccination drive, what is the role of sharing between the central and state administrations?

How helpful has this data been in devising the new policy guidelines?

Lav Agarwal: Actually, the whole COVID-19 management in this country has been, primarily, data driven insights. From the time that COVID pandemic started across the world, we created a COVID-19 portal through which we collected data that came from District Collector offices. Which made us understand what the trajectory of the cases is across the country. When we even provide that data to the communities, that we want to highlight the places where cases are rising the most and instruct authorities that these are the places where you need to take a public health action in terms of containment and other measures.

Similarly, data provides us insights in terms of understanding where, if death is happening, it is the most important aspect that but those infected are late in adopting home isolation? So, that extent we follow our surveillance mechanism more stringently.

Like the data from the clinical side provides us details in terms of understanding what additional changes need to be done in the clinical management protocol; what type of medicines may be useful, so our national task force take those details into account in defining the clinical management protocols. So, I would like to highlight in that it is these data driven insights which make it important and useful for us to understand the trajectory and take the required action at the field level.

Term/Word:

Question: The Union Health Ministry has recently revised the protocols for home isolation. What are the salient features of the revised guidelines?

Lav Agarwal: Home isolation guidelines have recently been revised and if I were to highlight the most important aspect, I would like to submit that first and foremost, it is important that only mild or asymptomatic people should go for home isolation. If you are having moderate or severe symptoms, you need hospitalization.

Next, how to take care of specific features of the revised guidelines? The Ministry has recently revised some aspects of the guidelines in devising the new policy. There was massive data sharing between the central and state administrations.

Please note that some people who go for home isolation may remain asymptomatic in a much ventilated space and there is also room available within that house for quarantine for other family members. It is also important that the patient has a care-giver to provide support and this care-giver, as we have specifically highlighted, should preferably be a person who has completed his vaccination schedule. We have also highlighted that it is important that the care-giver should remain in touch with the local office of the health services.

We have prescribed certain specific guidelines to be followed primarily by the patient. It is important that the patient should remain isolated in a separate room which is well ventilated.

Patients should, at all point of time, wear two triple-layer mask and he should discard this mask after eight hours of use or if the mask is wet or soiled. Now, it is very important to focus on how the mask has to be discarded: so you should take that mask, cut it into pieces, so that it cannot be re-used. You can keep it for 72 hours- by that time we expect the germs which are there on the mask will not be surviving- and then dispose it off. This biomedical waste should not become a reason for us to pass on the infection to others. Simultaneously, the patient should self-monitor his health, particularly with respect to oxygen saturation, the temperature, etc. People who have an ongoing co-morbid situation should only go for home isolation per the approval given by the treating medical officer. There may be some set of people who may actually be in a compromised status; for example, people who may have cancer or other malignancy, etc. Those set of people are generally not recommended for home isolation. Even if done, it should specifically be done as per the recommendation and advice given by the treating medical officer.

We have also specifically highlighted that it is important to use telemedicine because you are staying at home and you would need guidance. Either it is the e-Sanjivani platform made available by Government of India, or any other similar platform you should make use of that platform to remain in touch with your respective doctors.

You should take the medicines based on doctor’s advice for the management of symptoms. If you have fever, you should take paracetamol and paracetamol and if you have persistent coughing you should also follow respiratory hygiene, etc. If you have specifically highlighted that if even after taking four paracetamol tablets during the day, the fever is not going down, you should immediately get in touch with the doctor. There are certain specific things we have highlighted in this particular home isolation guidelines and this is based on our learning and experience of the earlier times.

We have also given specific guideline on when you should discharge yourself from home isolation. They are different from what we have highlighted that it is important to specifically not take steroids. We are evidences that if you are asymptomatic patients. There are evidences that if you are taking steroids without the required technical support, then it may lead to a second infection. So, what is going to be different for every patient then we have to ensure that we follow those treatment protocols as advised by the medical doctors, as well as their specific guidelines for the caregivers.

Question: What is a very important parameter - evidence based approach.

Evidences also indicate that if you are fully vaccinated you do not get severe infection. So, I would really want to inform everyone that it is critical that as and when the vaccines are made available and you are eligible, kindly get yourself fully vaccinated.

Lav Agarwal: It is a very important question. We all need to understand that as per the available evidences across the world and even in India, it is vaccine along with the other COVID protocols like the use of mask and physical distancing—which is going to be our biggest support. The evidences clearly indicate that if you are fully vaccinated, you have much lesser chance of getting infected by the virus including the Omicron variant. Evidences also clearly indicate that if you are fully vaccinated your chances of hospitalisation are much lesser. Evidences also indicate that if you are fully vaccinated you do not get severe infection. So, I would really want to inform everyone that it is critical that as and when the vaccines are made available and you are eligible, kindly get yourself fully vaccinated.

Lav Agarwal: From moment one, we had a very clearly defined communication strategy. For example, when I say that we have crossed the threshold of 150 crore vaccine doses in the country, it is part of our approach to eliminate hesitancy. Equally important is highlighting the vaccination drive which is going to be our field staff. I am sure you would have seen those videos in which our ASHA workers and ANMs are crossing mountains and rivers to go to the farthest corners of this country, educate people about the vaccines. We have also taken help of the community at large: whether it is our community based organisations, NGOs, civil societies, organisation, elders; everyone have been supportive in this initiative – the world biggest vaccination drive. Along with this have also expanded our program. I am happy to highlight that we have started vaccination for 15-18 age group also. Simultaneously, we have started precautionary dose for healthcare workers, for our frontline workers, and for people above 60 years who are having co-morbid conditions.

Understanding COVID Vaccines and their Effectiveness

Dr. Sanjukta Das

Vaccines are scientific tools that protect us from infections and are so considered to be effective health interventions ever developed by mimicking an infection which alerts and prompts our immune system to fight against pathogens such as bacteria, viruses, fungi and parasites.

In the 1970’s Dr Edward Jenner innovated a technique of achieving immunity against small pox by administering cowpox fluid in the human body. This marked the advent of ‘Vaccination’ and ‘Immunisation.’ In fact, the word vaccine derives its origin from the name of cowpox virus—Vaccinia. Since then, human beings have immensely benefited from vaccines. At present, in the face of COVID-19 pandemic—one of the greatest health crises in recorded history—COVID-19 is greater in number than any other vaccine ever developed.

Science of Corona Vaccines

The science behind the vaccine against SARS-CoV-2 is based on different potential approaches—conventional as well as novel—for ensuring safety and efficacy.

Whole Virus Approach

Inactivated Covid-19 Vaccine: Vaccines on platforms based on inactivated virus microbe is a well-established and time-tested approach utilised in developing vaccines against a number of diseases in the past. Jonas Salk in 1950s formulated the polo vaccine on this principle. Other examples of this inactivated vaccine category are the vaccines used for Rabies and Hepatitis A.

Covaxin: India’s indigenous COVID-19 vaccine developed by Bharat Biotech in collaboration with the National Institute of Virology and ICMR is an inactivated coronavirus vaccine capable of inducing immune response in humans. The science behind this vaccine is that the virus is inactivated and replication deficient, but its surface proteins remain intact. The inactivated form of COVID-19 virus is administered with an immuno-genic adjuvant to boost immunogenicity. Covaxin activates both the T and B cell response. The plus points with this vaccine protocol is that it does not need sub-zero storage as it is stable at 2-8 degree Celsius and is ready for use without reconstitution requirement.

Viral Component COVID Vaccines

Viral Subunits Approach: In this vaccine technology instead of using the entire virus for vaccine development, the specific parts of virus such as protein or sugars are utilised. Vaccines administered to children include those of diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough (pertussis), etc belong to this category. Corona vaccines, based on protein subunit formulations include CORBEVAX produced by Hyderabad-based firm Biological E and COVOVAX by Serum Institute of India.

CORBEVAX is India’s first indigenously developed RBD (receptor binding domain) protein subunit vaccine against SARS-CoV-2. COVOVAX is a subunit protein vaccine based on NOVAXAV formulation. COVOVAX is based on a novel platform of utilising an engineered injectable baculovirus containing a gene for spike protein. The baculovirus replicates in moth cells and produce spike proteins. These spike proteins are extracted and purified for use in a vaccine. Unlike mRNA (Messenger RNA) and vector vaccines, subunit vaccine is a protein adenovirus. Adjuvants are ingredients incorporated in vaccine formulation to enhance immune response. It contains nanoparticles of spike proteins which induce both antibody and T cell response.

Nucleic Acid (DNA/RNA Based) COVID Vaccines

This kind of Vaccine platforms uses genetic material having the instructions for the cells to synthesise specific proteins. The examples are ZyCoV-D—a DNA based vaccine, Pfizer-BioTech’s Comirnaty— an mRNA based vaccine, and Moderna’s Spikevax. These vaccines are injected intramuscularly and thus the mRNA enters the cell, it instructs the cell machinery to produce spike protein, a viral surface protein which triggers our immune system to produce antibodies against it. Since no live virus is incorporated in it, there is no fear of infection to occur. Additionally, mRNA never enters the nucleus of the cell, so no scope for mutation. However, RNA vaccines need to be stored at ultra-cold temperature of about minus 70 degree Celsius. ZyCoV-D is the world’s first plasmid DNA vaccine against COVID-19, produced indigenously in India by Zyduz Cadilla of Ahmedabad with the support of Department of Biotechnology and the ICMR (Indian Council of Medical Research). The science behind this vaccine adopts a novel approach that it uses a genetically engineered, non-replicating plasmid having the instructions for spike protein. On vaccination, the code for spike protein enters the cell and spike protein is produced which stimulates the immune system to build immune response. This vaccine is administered intradermally through a needle-free device that is painless. One positive aspect about DNA platform vaccine is that it can be easily modified to mutation in the Coronavirus. Besides, DNA vaccines have better stability and lower cold chain requirements.

Virus-Replicating Viral Vector Based Vaccines

This type of vaccine adopts a well-tested technology platform that uses harmless virus called vector that is not the one to cause COVID-19. The virus is modified to be a recombinant non-replicating one, also called replication incompetent or replication deficient. Examples include Sputnik V developed by Gamaleya of Russia and Janssen produced by Johnson and Johnson. Covaxin was developed RBD (receptor binding domain) protein subunit vaccine against SARS-CoV-2 spike protein that causes an immune response. Adenovirus does not cause COVID-19. Instead, when injected, the vaccine produces SARS-CoV-2 protein in human cell and induces immune response.

Sputnik V also known as Gam-COVID—Vac is the third kind of Covid-19 vaccine besides COVAXIN and Covishield to be approved by the Drugs Controller General of India (DCGI) for immunisation of public during this ongoing pandemic. This vaccine technology uses two harmless human adenoviruses Ad26 and rAd5 for first and second dose respectively. These viruses act as vector to deliver genetic code for COVID-19 viral protein that induces the immune system to tackle future infections.

Benefits of COVID Vaccines

The above elucidation establishes that COVID-19 vaccine platforms based on inactivated virus Protein subunit, vector and DNA/RNA, either deliver or make our body to produce harmless spike proteins found on the surfaces of the COVID-19 virus. This in turn prompts the human body to produce antibodies against the virus, thereby providing immunity for future infection. The basket of COVID-19 vaccines validated by the World Health Organization (WHO) is expanding quite fast. All the vaccines are subjected to clinical trials to test their safety and effectiveness before they are approved for immunisation of the public by Drugs Controller General of India. Data on the long term benefits and side effects of the vaccines are being continuously monitored at the appropriate level.

The WHO has indicated that vaccine hesitancy as one of the biggest threat to global health. Vaccine hesitancy refers to a situation in which people with access to vaccines, refuse or delay vaccination. The WHO and Health authorities across the globe are urging the public to get vaccinated as vaccines are meant to prevent the onset of disease or to reduce the severity of the disease. Moreover it lowers the risk of contracting an infection and at same time reduces the likelihood of virus transmission.

COVID vaccines not only protect against the disease, but also reduce the chance of viral spreading. Natural immunity compounded by vaccine induced immunity results in an effective means to safeguard oneself against viral infections. Adding to that, vaccines can be innovated as and when new variants of the virus come to the fore. Thus, vaccines remain the best hope for ending the pandemic. Ultimately, to defeat COVID-19 an effective combination of three measures is required—maintain natural immunity, vaccination and effective public health measures.

Handmade Tales: Celebrating Crafts of India

Handicraft is processing materials by hand with hand tools. The results can be useful or decorative objects. These materials utilised in the product are natural, industrially processed or may be recycled. The models of the product are ancient, revised, traditional or fashionable. In their product, the crafters transfer an area of their cultural heritage in ideas, forms, materials and work ways, as their own values, philosophy of life, fashion and self-image. India has a vast tradition of handcrafts that get their uniqueness from the regions and cultures they are prepared by.

Clay/Soil Crafts

Brick and tile are the most basic materials found in every corner of the country, soil/clay has been used for making earthenware, figurines, bricks, tiles, beads, etc. Objects made of soil/clay are one of the earliest artefacts found during excavations of archaeological sites as early as the chalcolithic period and continue to exist in the present time.

Terracotta is one of the oldest crafts that human beings have introduced on this earth. It was once considered to be the poor man's craft. But in course of time, it has made its access and continued to flourish and was found in every sort of shell found on the Andaman and Nicobar Islands with a rich variety of shells and a wide range of decorative shells are made on the shores of the islands. The Conch Shell and Tortoise shell of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands are the most important and valued shells. Kachchh has a long coastline and thus making use of the seas, the people have been in demand among all products that have been designated by the localities, using shells and conches for the making of their handicrafts and are very unique. Also, some colorful shells are made in toys as it has multiple uses. They are used in creating captivating toys. Birds, animals, plants, agarbattis stands and figures of Gods and Goddesses are prepared by joining appropriate coloured shells with an adhesive. Later eyes, nose, ears, garments etc are painted with special paints. Seashell handicrafts are found in the coastal regions across the country.

Shell Crafts

Seashell is the outer case of soft-bodied animals called molluscs. After the animals living inside have dried up, the shells are collected and graded and polished. The shells are used for making useful objects such as the following: masks, decorative shells, sculptures, and making beautiful and colorful ornamental figures. Nature has bestowed Andaman and Nicobar Islands with a rich variety of shells and a wide range of decorative shells are made on this island. There are almost every kind of shell found on the shores of the islands. The Conch Shell and Tortoise shell of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands are the most important and valued shells. Kachchh has a long coastline and thus making use of the seas, the people have been in demand among all products that have been designated by the localities, using shells and conches for the making of their handicrafts and are very unique. Embroidery

An ancient Indian art involving the use of needle and thread with materials like threads, pearls, beads, quills and sequins, embroidery is a broad term for the handicrafts of decorative stitching and textiles arts. Anything that uses a needle for crafting is known as embroidery. The fabrics and decorative material used in traditional embroidery vary from region to region.

For example, Dankha embroidery is a centuries-old embroidery from Rajasthan. The term ‘dankha’ is used to refer to small pieces of metal (originally gold or silver). The fabric is stretched on a wooden frame and the decoration is applied on the fabric as per the design with strands of gold and silver strands. Aari embroidery (Jamu & Kashmir) is specifically done on a stretched fabric. The needle, with a hook at the end, is called an aari. The stitching is done with silver or golden threads known as zari, and is embellished with beads and pearl or stone. Zardozi (zari & pearl) is a type of heavy metal embroidery on velvet, satin and silk fabrics. Gold and silver threads are used to create designs along with pearls, beads, stones, etc. Earlier, real gold and silver were used but now gilted wires are used for this purpose.

Kantha (West Bengal) embroidery is executed on layers of old clothes stitched along with plain old worn clothes and old cotton saris. On this, different coloured threads are embroidered using a simple running or chain stitch. Motifs used are flowers, birds, animals etc. In the applique technique (Odisha), pieces of fabric are cut and folded into little shapes and then stitched on the base fabric. It is further decorated with mirror and thread work. The motifs are geometric, abstract, and stylised.

Embroidery on the garments of Chamba women is a characteristic of the Chamba Rumal. This has influences from the Jammu & Kashmir embroidery tradition, which is prevalent anywhere else in Indian embroidery tradition. The motifs on it get inspired from the flora and fauna of the Himalayan region and Pahari paintings of Lord Krishna. Sujani (Bihar) is a thread embroidery that is inspired by the Tangled Tribes of old white cotton saris that are stitched together in white thread. This type is inspired by daily life. The embroidery is done on muslin, that each piece of Sujani tells a story.

Lambadi (Andhra Pradesh) is basically a thread embroidery done over a base fabric of red or blue colour. Further embellishment is done using mirrors, glass, metallic beads, embroidered beads and coins. Soof Embroidery is practised in the Kutch region of Gujarat. This style of embroidery makes use of soof (a type of beaded threads that are not drawn, rather carefully counted on fabric by the artisan and worked in reverse. At times, the textile is constructed simultaneously, combined with the designs, giving the fabric a rich look.

Phulkari (Punjab) is a thread embroidery and involves bright colours. ‘Phul’ means flower and ‘kari’ means work. Although Phulkari means floral work, the designs include not only flowers but leaves, geometrical shapes, and diamond patterns using appropriate coloured shells with an adhesive. Later eyes, nose, ears, garments etc are painted with special paints. Seashell handicrafts are found in the coastal regions across the country.

Theatre Crafts

Theatre has many crafts which make them a successful performance tradition, be it stage-crafts where carpentry, carving, paintings, etc., are involved. The costumes used for theatre are designed for the skin to delineate the gorgeous costumes and jewellery of each figure. They are in many colours and are carved out at the last, which symbolises bringing the figures to life. Shadow puppets are flat figures. They are pressed against the screen with a strong light source behind it. This tradition of shadow puppets survives in Orissa, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu.

Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi delivered a ‘State of the World’ special address at the World Economic Forum’s virtual summit “Davos Agenda” on 17th January 2022. Heads of State and Governments as well as CEOs of major multi-national companies and other leaders gathered for the virtual summit - a dialogue on critical collective challenges and how to address them. Due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the three-day event was held virtually this year. This dialogue served as a springboard to the Annual Meeting of the World Economic Forum slated to be held in Davos later this year. Below are the key highlights of the PM’s speech:

‘One Earth, One Health’

During the Corona time, we have seen how India, following the vision of ‘One Earth, One Health’, is saving crores of lives by providing necessary medicines and vaccines to many countries. Today India is the world’s third largest pharma producer, it’s a pharmacy to the world. Today, India is among those countries of the world whose health professionals are actively participating, winning everyone’s trust through their sensitivity and expertise.

India’s Robust IT Sector

India is sending record software engineers to the world. More than 50 lakh software developers are working in India. Today India has the third largest number of Unicorns in the world. More than 10 thousand start-ups have been registered in the last 6 months. Today India has a huge, secure and successful digital payments platform. Last month alone, 4.4 billion transactions have been done through Unified Payments Interface in India.

Digital Revolution

The digital infrastructure that India has developed and adopted over the years has become a huge strength of India today. Technological solutions like Arogya-Setu App for tracking Corona Infections and CoWin Portal for Vaccination are a matter of pride for India. The online facilities offered by India’s CoWin portal - from slot booking to certificate generation, has caught the attention of people from bigger countries as well.

Ease of Doing Business

India is promoting Ease of Doing Business, minimizing government interference. India has made its corporate tax the most competitive in the world by simplifying and reducing it. Last year alone, we have eliminated more than 25 thousand compliances. India has regained the confidence of the business community by reforming measures like retrospective taxes. India has also deregulated many sectors like Drones, Space, Geo-spatial mapping. India has made major reforms in the out dated telecom regulations related to IT sector and BPO.

Trusted Partner in Global Supply Chain

India is committed to becoming a trusted partner in the world in global supply-chains. We are making way for free-trade agreement with many countries. The ability of Indians to adopt innovation, new technology; the spirit of entrepreneurship of Indians; can give new energy to every global partner of ours.

Best Time to Invest in India

This is the best time to invest in India. Entrepreneurship among Indian youth is at a new height today. In 2014, where there were few hundred registered Start-Ups in India, their numbers have crossed 60 thousand today. It also has more than 80 Unicorns, of which more than 40 were formed in 2021. Just as expert Indians are showing their skills on the global stage, in the same way Indian youth are fully ready, geared up to give new heights to all your businesses in India.

Make in India, Make for the World

While following the path of self-reliance, India’s focus is not only on easing the processes, but also on incentivizing investment and production. With this approach, Production Linked Incentive schemes worth $26 billion have been implemented in 14 sectors. We are moving ahead with the spirit of Make in India. Make for the World. Along with telecom, insurance, defence, aerospace, now there are limitless possibilities offered by India in the field of semiconductors as well.

Clean, Green, Sustainable, Reliable Growth

Today India is drafting policies, taking decisions with regard to the present as well as the goals of the next 25 years. This period of growth will also be Green, it will also be Clean, it will also be Sustainable, it will also be Reliable. We have also set a target of net zero emissions by 2070. Our commitment to tackle Climate Change is 100 percent. Initiatives like International Solar Alliance and Coalition for Disaster-Resilient Infrastructure for Climate Adaptation are proof of this. As a result of the efforts of the past years, today 40% of our Energy Mix is coming from non-fossil fuel sources. We have already achieved the commitments made by India in Paris, 9 years before their target.

New Challenges call for New Avenues, New Resolutions

Today, with the change in the global order, the challenges we have been facing as a global family are also increasing, for example Cryptocurrency. The kind of technology that is associated with it, the decisions taken by a single country will be inadequate to deal with its challenges. We have to have a common mindset. But looking at the global scenario today, the question is whether multilateral organizations are ready to deal with the new world order and new challenges, is that strength left in them? It is the responsibility of every developed country to emphasize reforms so that they can tackle the challenges of present and future. In the midst of new challenges, the world today needs new avenues, new resolutions. Today, every country in the world needs cooperation with each other more than ever before.

HANDMADE TALES: CELEBRATING CRAFTS OF ...

Shola pith, also called Indian cork, is a beautiful milky-white sponge wood that is finely carved by artists to create various artefacts. Sholapith, traditional craft of West Bengal, is popularly used to craft head-ears of bridal couples, gariands, and images of gods and goddesses especially as backdrops during important festivals.

Bamboo and cane are used in many ways to make several articles that are used to decorate as well as those articles which people require in their day to day lives. Bamboo and cane are used to craft baskets, mats, mats, flower vases, containers, weaving accessories, musical instruments, and household furniture items like morahs (small stools) and chairs. Dolls and toys are also made with bamboo and cane. All north-eastern states have rich traditions of handicrafts manufactured from these two natural fibres.

Banana fibre is a natural fiber that has a wide selection of uses in handicrafts product-developments like mat rope. The fibre is extracted from banana bark. Banana fibre can be used for creating varied product like coasters, mats, bags, runners, and home furnishings.

Jute, or the golden fibre, is used to make decorative and utility products such as bags, file folders, wall hangings, etc. A key feature of jute is its ability to be used either independently or blended with a range of other fibres and materials. Jute weaving is popular in the eastern and north eastern India.

Medical Education

National Commission for Allied and Healthcare Professions Act 2021: To address the long standing vacuum of a regulatory body for various professions included in the allied and healthcare sector, a National Commission for Allied and Healthcare Professions Act 2021 has been enacted. The basic premise and principle challenge is that in all these professional education sectors is the Regulator is now being ‘selected on merits’, as opposed to an ‘elected’ regulator. Moreover, the constitution of the National Medical Commission has ushered in a landmark reform in the sector of Medical Education. On similar lines, the Government is striving to bring institutional reforms in nursing and dental education sectors by bringing reformatory legislations to replace the existing Indian Nursing Council Act, 1947 and Dentists Act, 1948.

Draft National Dental Commission Bill: In order to revamp the Dental Education System in the country to bring it at par with global standards, a National Dental Commission Bill (the Bill), to replace the existing Dentists Act, 1948, has been prepared and is under consideration of the Parliament. The Commission shall frame guidelines and conduct a uniform entrance test at undergraduate level i.e. National Eligibility cum Entrance Test, a uniform exit test i.e. National Exit Test (Dental), common counselling for admission to undergraduate and postgraduate dental courses etc. The Bill provides for the constitution of a National Dental Commission, four Autonomous Boards, a Dental Advisory Council and State Dental Councils. The Bill further provides for constitution of four Autonomous Boards namely Undergraduate Dental Education Board (UGDEB), Postgraduate Dental Education Board (PGDEB), Dental Assessment and Rating Board (DARB) and Ethics and Dental Registration Board (EDRB) - to regulate the education, examination, training and services of dental professionals and dental auxiliaries like dental hygienists, dental technicians and dental operating room assistants. The Bill empowers the Central Government to give directions to the Commission and the Autonomous Boards on questions of policy and also to the State Governments for carrying out all or any of the provisions of this Act. The draft Bill is under consideration.

Increase in number of medical seats: During the last six years, MBBS seats increased by 72%, from 51,348 seats in 2014 to 88,120 seats in 2021 and the number of PG seats increased by 78% from 30,185 seats in 2014 to 55,595 seats in 2021.

New Medical Colleges: During the same period, 209 new medical colleges have been established and now the country has 596 (Govt: 313, Pvt: 283) medical colleges. Under the Central Sponsored Scheme for establishment of new medical colleges, establishment of 157 medical colleges have been approved in three phases, of which 70 are functional and remaining will be functional in a few years. Of these 157 colleges, 39 are coming up in the Aspirational Districts of the country thereby addressing the issues of inequity in medical education.

The Government of India has already committed to increasing government healthcare expenditure from about 1.6% currently to 2.5% of GDP by 2025. Health insurance, medical devices, education and healthcare infrastructure are being offered at a high pace. COVID-19 pandemic has also accelerated investment in healthcare infrastructure and medical insurance. Moreover, state-of-the-art hospitals and clinics are being set up across the country by large private sector companies such as Apollo, Max, Fortis, Wockhardt, Tata and several others.

As the corporate ethics in the field, there has been and will be greater demand for healthcare professionals. Expansion of healthcare can also be attributed to the merger & acquisitions taking place between domestic and foreign companies. Various international brands are venturing into this sector.
